

When you have a custom jewelry design appointment, it is important to be well-prepared to ensure that you can effectively communicate your vision. Here is a list of items and information you should consider bringing or preparing for your appointment:

- Inspiration:
Bring any images, sketches, or pictures of jewelry that you find inspiring or similar to what you have in mind. This can help us understand your taste and style preferences.
- Existing Jewelry Pieces:
Any jewelry items you want to repurpose or incorporate into the new design. This could include personal or family rings, necklaces, bracelets, earrings, or other pieces.
- Gemstones or Materials:
If you have specific gemstones or materials you want to use in the new design, bring them along. This could include diamonds, gemstones, or precious metals. Alternatively, if you want to select gemstones during the appointment, have an idea of the type, size, and quality you desire.
- Metal Preferences:
Know your metal preferences, whether it's gold, platinum, or another metal. We will need this information to provide accurate design recommendations.
- Design Details:
Be prepared to discuss specific design details such as the style (e.g., vintage, modern, minimalist), the type of jewelry (ring, necklace, bracelet, etc.), and any specific design elements you want to incorporate (engravings, filigree, gemstone settings, etc.).
- Sizing Information:
If you're designing a piece of jewelry that needs to fit for a gift, such as a ring, provide accurate sizing information.
- Timeline:
Custom jewelry design can take time, so if you have a specific date in mind (e.g., for a special occasion), let us know.
- Questions: Prepare any questions you have about the custom design process, materials, or any concerns you might have. Don't hesitate to ask for clarification or additional information.
- Open Mind: While having your ideas and preferences, we would like you to be open to suggestions and expertise. We can offer valuable insights and recommendations to bring your vision to life.

Most importantly, get ready to have some fun! It's not every day that you get to create your own jewelry masterpiece. The process is just as exciting whether this is for a gift or yourself. We are looking forward to designing with you!
